RICHMOND POLICE WAR ON CARDS

RICHMOND, Feb. 24.—War is on between Chief of Police W. H. Wood of Richmond, who has ordered all kinds of card games stopped in cigar stores and pool halls, and the pool hall proprietors as the result of the drastic police regulations, according to an announcement made by an attorney representing the establishments today.

The cigar store and pool hall proprietors declare that they will carry the fight to the meeting of the city council tonight to have the action of the police chief declared illegal. They contend that there is no authority vested in the chief which enables him to stop innocent card games in which no money is passed. Then if their appeal to the trustees brings no results they will force the police to apply the same rule to the Elks' clubs and all other fashionable societies where card games are played, they say.

Chief Wood declared today that the only way to stop gambling in these places is to prohibit all kinds of card playing.

Congressman Elston and Nolan Make Fight for Big Naval Base on S. F. Bay

According to a telegram to the Oakland Chamber of Commerce from Congressman J. A. Elston, Chairman Thomas S. Butler of the House committee, before which the first of the San Francisco bay naval base hearings was held yesterday, declared during the hearing that he was strongly in favor of keeping half the American Navy permanent in the Pacific waters, and added that it was incumbent upon the government to provide adequate facilities for the upkeep of the Pacific fleet. In this connection, Chairman Butler pointed out that $150,000,000 had been spent on the Atlantic coast naval bases in the last few years as against comparatively small amounts on the Western Congressman Elston and John I. Nolan of San Francisco were the principal witnesses at the hearing, which was called specially to consider Pacific coast defenses. Congressman Charles P. Curry of Sacramento was to have appeared, but illness prevented.

INADEQUACY POINTED OUT.—Both Elston and Nolan emphasized the national necessity of Pacific coast defenses and pointed out the inadequacy at present of the facilities on this coast for caring for the Pacific fleet. Practically every member of the committee questioned the California congressmen regarding the various sites on San Francisco bay. Both gave the facts only, without urging any particular site, as they had agreed that the California congressmen and senators should work as a unit at this time to secure the recommended $10,000,000 appropriation for a naval base on San Francisco bay, without reference to its location.

Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois, one of the naval affairs committee, who visited the Alameda site last spring, had read into the record an extract from the Army

BEDACHT WILL BE TRIED IN OAKLAND

Max Bedacht, at liberty on bail on a charge of criminal syndicalism here, is to be turned over to the local police by the authorities of San Francisco for trial, according to the police today because it is understood Governor William D. Stephens has announced he will not issue extradition papers for Bedacht's return to Chicago, charging him with participation in an alleged scheme to overthrow the government. At that time Bedacht, according to the police, was at liberty on bail pending disposal of charges of criminal syndicalism against him. He was arrested as a fugitive from justice on the Chicago charge but will now be turned over to the Oakland authorities in view of the Governor's refusal to issue extradition papers.

William H. Williams, S. F. Pioneer, Dies

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—William H. Williams, pioneer State senator and a member of many of the early day San Francisco organizations, died yesterday at Mary's Help hospital in San Francisco aged 72 years. He came to this city from New Zealand in 1849, when he was but six months old.

CONVICT REGAINS MEMORY AFTER SERUM DOSING

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—Robert Lockwood, 27, prisoner at San Quentin for grand larceny, has recovered his memory after a lapse of three years, according to Dr. L. L. Stanley, resident physician at the prison. Dr. Stanley has found that his real name is Fred Bruley, member of a Plattsburg, N. Y., family.

Two days after Bruley entered the prison hospital for treatment, Dr. Stanley became interested in the prisoner. On September 30 Dr. Stanley gave Bruley a serum treatment by injection into the spine. Shortly afterward Bruley's memory of memory became manifest.

The prisoner said that in January, 1917, he was in New York. He remembered boarding a train for Chicago, but could recall no details.

"I just seemed to come to myself in the hospital," he said last night.

Dr. Stanley declared last night that Bruley's recovery sets a precedent for persons regaining their lost memories after the use of treatment for a local ailment.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.—WILL STUDY MEASURE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—President Wilson will not act immediately on the compromise railroad bill passed yesterday by the Senate. It was announced at the White House today that the President had directed that the measure be referred to the Department of Justice as soon as it reached the White House from Congress.

The executive has ten days in which to pass upon the act before it can become a law without his signature. It is generally expected that he will be urged by organized labor to veto the bill because of its labor and other provisions.

The railroad brotherhoods oppose this section because it provides for tripartite labor boards whereas they desire to return to the old method of negotiation in the decision by representatives of the workers and the railroads.

REA SAYS PASSAGE OF BILL AID TO BUSINESS.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in a statement today said the passage of the railroad bill is beneficial to the country because it has been taken from a position of political discussion that increased public unrest and uncertainty.

WOMAN IS CALLED IN STEWART CASE

Pursuing their case, the defense in the trial of William F. Stewart, charged with murder, today played Mrs. Grace M. Hunt, a psychologist on the stand today to testify that Stewart only had the mentality of a child of the age of 12 years and 8 months.

Mrs. Hunt, who is associated with the Fulton Bell hospital, testified she had called Stewart in jail last month and applied the Binet-Simon test and arrived at the above conclusion. She was asked how it was that she had dropped in on the jail, and she answered that she went to the center of the prison and around Mrs. Hunt declared that Stewart only showed the mentality of a child 8 years old, she said.

After questioning Mrs. Hunt to a length, District Attorney Frank Sawyer placed Dr. J. W. Robertson, chemist, upon the stand in rebuttal, who testified that he considered Stewart sane. The testimony of the District Attorney's expert, Fred J. Crosby, and Dr. Robertson, it is expected to be conclusive in that it will allow the prosecution to have the expert's opinion in the jury's favor. The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

PUBLIC STADIUM DATA COLLECTED

Possibilities of raising $150,000 or $200,000 by popular subscription for the construction of a great stadium are being investigated by Mayor John L. Davis, as supplementary to his scheme for the beautification of Lake Merritt as an amusement center.

The mayor has been in correspondence with city officials of municipalities throughout the country that have public stadiums and is gathering data on the cost, style and method of providing for such buildings. One letter has just been received from Mayor C. M. Ridgell of Tacoma, submitting data on the Tacoma stadium.

The building cost $1,000,000, according to Mayor Ridgell, and all but $50,000 of the total cost was raised by public subscription. The stadium is secured from school districts. Other cities have secured the construction of stadiums through local issues. Mayor Davis will submit his plan to the people when he has gathered all of the data available from other cities.

NOSE INDICATES WHAT YOU ARE, U. S. NAVY SAYS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—The United States Navy Department believes that "your nose shows" according to a circular just received by the local recording office, which directs that in future applications for enlistment shall be classified by type of nose, and gives sketches of nose shapes to be used as a classification guide.

The circular reiterates that the type of nose adorning the face of the would-be enlistee indicates whether he would be a desirable recruit. It does not, however, say which of the nine listed types are undesirable. Navy officers here said there would probably be a later supplemental circular on that point.

27 Lessons in Writing Scenarios Tribune Has Noted Instructors

Twenty-seven lessons in scenario writing!

A practical university course conducted by two of the most famous writers of moving picture plays in the profession—all of this is made possible for OAKLAND TRIBUNE readers by special arrangements between The TRIBUNE and John Emerson and Anita Loos, famous writers of plays for Norma and Constance Talmadge, and other stars.

Nor is that all. The course will include personal criticism of manuscripts and the answering of questions by Mr. Emerson and his talented wife, Anita Loos.

When completed, the series of lessons of these noted drama builders will make the best text-book obtainable anywhere on the writing of picture scripts. Readers are advised to clip the articles and preserve them in scrap-books.

Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos have agreed to personally answer questions about photoplay writing and to criticize plots submitted by readers of The TRIBUNE. Amateurs wanting advice will be answered in these columns by Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos, if they send their questions to the Motion Picture Editor of this paper. Questions should be sent one at a time and must be confined to photoplay writing. Motion picture plots of not more than 300 words will be read and criticized by Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos if you will send your plot to the Motion Picture Editor of The TRIBUNE with a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The plot will be forwarded to Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos, who will read it and return it direct to you. Their criticism of the plot will be sent to The TRIBUNE for publication in its columns. Your name will not be mentioned unless you so desire. Initials only will be used to identify each question and plot criticism.

The privilege of the course is open to all readers of The OAKLAND TRIBUNE. The big series starts next Sunday, February 29. Arrange now for daily delivery of The TRIBUNE to your door.

120,000 PERSONAL TAX RETURNS DUE

More than 120,000 personal income tax returns in the First California district must be filed between now and March 15, as announced at the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Justus S. Wardell. Up to this time about 20,000 returns have been filed according to Chief Deputy John L. Flynn. He said that the returns by mail were exceptionally heavy, but apparently taxpayers in the larger cities cannot break away from the habit of waiting until near the end of the income tax filing period before rendering a statement of their income tax liability. It was pointed out that taxpayers who make an adjustment of their affairs now will get much better attention than those who run in just before the filing period ends on March 15, and the taxpayers can help the government and themselves by attending to this imperative duty at once.

Collector Wardell said that preparations were being made to place deputy collectors in the banks in San Francisco and the Bay cities, to assist taxpayers in making their returns. These deputies, the collector said, would be freely and gladly give any assistance and need no advice to taxpayers in making out their returns.

FAMOUS TREE IN GETHSEMANE IS DESTROYED

JERUSALEM, Feb. 24.—During a snowstorm the famous tree, "El Butim" in the Garden of Gethsemane was blown down. According to tradition, this tree would fall when the Turkish empire fell. Twice it was bound with iron braces to support it. The occurrence has impressed the population.

In the Garden of Gethsemane have stood for many years eight olive trees, tradition dating them back to the time of Christ. Their age-split trunks for years have been bound with iron and shored up with stones. High prices have been obtained for the oil from their olives and goodly prices realized from the sale of rosaries made from the stones. It is doubtless one of these trees which the despatch refers.

SAVE REDWOODS, ALL URGED TO WILL BE SLOGAN SERVE ON JURY

Professor H. C. Bryant of the University of California is arranging the program for the "Save the Redwoods Day" conference to be held at the Exposition Auditorium in San Francisco February 27, in connection with the Pacific Auto Show.

Many prominent Americans will speak and it is expected that the conference will result in a campaign to nationalize the most desirable of the California redwood tracts as national parks. Franklin K. Lane, president of the "Save the Redwoods League," and Stephen T. Mather, superintendent of National Parks, are expected to appear on the program.

Assurances of unlimited co-operation have been received from individuals and organizations in all parts of the state. Delegates to the conference have been named by many clubs and civic organizations. Judicious in the national movement to protect the California redwoods—the world's oldest living things—from destruction.

Shortening of the term of jury service and selection of jurors from registered voters were features of the California Civic League's jury reform campaign which meet with the approval of Judge A. F. St. Sure of the Alameda superior court. Presiding Judge T. W. Harris on the other hand objects to selecting voters from the register because a great number of them would be illiterate and ignorant. Judge St. Sure said:

"Jurors should be drawn from every walk of life and should include men and women actively engaged in business and social life. For this reason the term of jury service should be shortened so that it would not be an unreasonable hardship upon those occupying responsible positions in business life. It would seem advisable to have the jury lists selected from registered voters and from the county clerk."

Presiding Judge T. W. Harris does not for the casual selection of jurors from the voting list in the belief that it would result in many being selected who were not sufficiently well educated or who did not possess the calm judgment required of a juror. Experience had taught him, Judge Harris said, that a juror needed experience before he fully comprehended the law of reasonable doubt. The new juror will invariably acquit, said Judge Harris.

District Attorney Ezra Decoto declared he had no criticism to make of the present jury system, preferring to the proposed placing of an age limit said a juror in years often proved to be a better juror than a young person. He did not agree with the idea that persons advanced in years were likely to have prejudices that they could not overcome.

These views were called forth by reforms proposed by the California Civic League, which included limiting jury service to the time limit of one month, selection of jurors from the entire electorate, the limit of time in which a person can again be called for jury service; abolition of a special venire as long as any names remained upon the qualified jury list, and the reduction of exemptions.

Why does the Doctor Prescribe "More Sleep"

SOME people resent the doctor's telling them to get more sleep.

It is really the most disinterested advice he could give. If all his patients slept soundly, every night, they would keep their system toned up and avoid many an ailment.

U. S. WILL LIST AUTO FACILITIES

Registration of the motor vehicles in every state in the Union with the United States Government for National Defense with the idea of furnishing automobiles and trucks to supplement the army trucks in case of war emergency or destruction of railroad lines has been according to Senator B. Jackson, director of the project.

If case tunnels are blown up, a great many cars in this country and the automobiles and trucks of the United States would have to be used to carry passengers bodies of the people about the country.

Representatives of the United States were asked in December, 1919, to furnish information as to the number of such vehicles available and these reports are now coming in and being edited by a central office.

In some instances states have not reported their figures but have signified their willingness to do so. New York has reported 150,000 cars with 2,000,000 passengers.

In California there is already complete plans for rapid mobilization of the motor trucks of the state for use in the army in case of war, is declared a former Senator in a report, saying that in a few hours the state can furnish a report on all such vehicles owned and used in the state.

Other states have promised early reports while a number of the larger commonwealths have joined California in declaring that their total resources are being mobilized and ready for the government's notice for national defense.

WATER SPOUTS SEEN ON COAST

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Feb. 24.—Three waterspouts ranging in height from two to three thousand feet struck the coast north of Fort San Luis late Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The smallest of the three, diverted from its course by headwinds, entered and traveled the shortest length of the bay in full view of residents of Fort San Luis, Avila, Pismo and Oceano.

The phenomenon was followed by a tremendous downpour of rain.

MY HEART and MY HUSBAND

BY ADELE GARRISON

"Well, Betty, what's on your mind?"

"Drink you tea first," the old servant replied automatically, "an' den I'll tell you. Yoh ain't fit to hear tea, yoh's dat tired. Get yoh tea first."

Lillian swallowed her hot tea obediently, and I followed her example. There was nothing else to do. The big, sombre, orange-tinted eyes of the old-colored woman were inexorably upon us. Lillian evidently knew that Betty would keep her word and her counsel until we had satisfied her that we had been duly refreshed by the hot tea.

"Now," Lillian set down the fragile tea cup she had just drained. "That's my third cup, yoh old tyrant. Now tell me your news."

"That cup don't hold no moah dan a good thingful," Betty grumbled, "so yoh hain't got nuffin to brag about. But I reckon I'll have to tell you. Shiloh's set down the woman from up the mountains, she's been tryin' to get you on de telephone all de afternoon an' she said would yoh please to call her up when yoh was in."

"THE MOMENT I KNOW."

Lillian sprang to her feet, her face white with anger and dismay. "Cosgrove! Cosgrove! I sit here drinking tea! I shall not forgive you for this, Betty."

The last words were thrown over her shoulder as she rushed to the telephone. Betty looked after her grimly.

"Don't make no difference to me 'bout dat forgiveness," she muttered. "I got dat hot tea down her 'fore she had a chance to hear any bad news."

"Do you think it's bad news, Betty?" I murmured the question breathlessly, while all the time my brain was busy with conjectures concerning the possible meaning of the summons from the sister of Robert Savarin.

"Don't know," the old woman replied laconically. "Ah don't ask no questions what aint mah business. But," evidently yielding to the desire to make a confidant of somebody, "dat sister of Mistah Savarin's, she couldn't keep de cryin' out of her voice now when she was talkin' to me. Dere's a screw loose somewhere, yoh marks mah wof, honey."

I shared her uneasiness as I waited for Lillian to come back from the telephone. She had a good deal of trouble in getting her counsel, and when she had finally secured it, seemed to have difficulty in understanding the person at the other end. She spoke but once or twice her self.

"No, I have heard nothing, either," she said once, and just before she hung up the receiver, gave a

The Rainbow Race

Old World a turning
With stars for your friends
Wish that you could land us
Where the rainbow ends!
For the race we've been a-running
Since dusty days of old,
In the glory of the story
Of the rainbow's gold.

The saints have been believing,
The sinners made the race—
So long the gold has been gleaming
At the Get-There-Place!
They're weary, but they're willing,
With arms that reach to hold
Full measure of the treasure
Of the rainbow's gold.

But Time has never found it—
And Time's a traveler gray
That raced the road with many
From the rainbow's way.

Then, old World, a-turning,
With stars for your friends,
Lend the poor and needy
Where the rainbow ends!

ASK THE TRIBUNE

A Department of Questions and Answers

Questions pertaining to the application of the law to specific cases, such as collection of damages, choice contests and property rights, will not be answered in these columns.—Editor.

Editor THE TRIBUNE: If a person destroyed your property and you were holding his things until he made good your loss, how long would you have to keep them?—A READER.

No specific answer can be given. Generally speaking, goods cannot be held for damages unless it is with the consent of the party whose goods are held. If possession of the goods has been gained without permission of the owner, the holder might be liable for a criminal robbery charge. On the other hand if you have sued for damages and been awarded judgment failure to pay the judgment may amount to contempt of court.

Editor THE TRIBUNE: (1) Has permanent hair waving (water waving) any bad after effect on the hair? (2) Is there more than one method besides the "Revelations of a Wife" and if so what are they?—A. S.

Permanent hair waving and water waving are not identical. Expert opinion is that water waving leaves no bad after effect, while the so-called permanent waving does, having a tendency to cause the hairs to break. There are a number of methods. Adele Garrison has never published any of her stories in book form, according to the national authors' dictionary, which was published on January 1 of this year. Her "Revelations of a Wife" and "My Heart and Husband," which is now running serially in THE TRIBUNE, are her two most recent stories. Several of her earlier stories were printed in national magazines.

Wiggly, with a twinkle of his pink nose. "And I hope they like me. But you know it will soon be time for Woody and Waddy to take their long winter sleep, and they won't come out again until Candemore Day, or February 2. So if I want to have any adventures, with them I'll have to do it soon."

"Hop along!" laughed Nurse Jane, as she gave Uncle Wiggly the cup of sugar. He carried it to the burrow, or underground house, where Mrs. Chuck, the groundhog lady, lived.

"Woody and Waddy have just gone to school," said Mrs. Chuck. "But if you hurry perhaps you may catch up with them."

"I'll hurry," said Uncle Wiggly, as he handed Mrs. Chuck the cup of sugar. Nurse Jane had sent.

The rabbit gentleman hopped on over the fields and through the forest, and pretty soon he saw on the path ahead of him a little animal boy, about as large as a puppy dog.

"Hello there!" called Uncle Wiggly.

"Hello!" came back the answer, and the bunny saw Woody Chuck stop and wait.

"Where's your brother, Waddy?" asked the bunny.

"Oh, he ran on ahead," answered Woody. "He's going to help the lady mouse teacher clean out the blackboard, so he wanted to be early. Are you going to walk to school with me, Uncle Wiggly?"

"I am," answered the rabbit gentleman, and then he asked Woody about the little woodchuck boy's lessons.

And when Uncle Wiggly found Woody didn't know his spelling very well, Mr. Longears helped the animal boy.

"Woody and Uncle Wiggly were having a nice time walking through the woods when, all of a sudden, out from behind a big tree popped the bad old Skuddemagoo. The Skuddemagoo opened his mouth wide in a big grin and said:

"Well, I guess I've caught you this time, Uncle Wiggly! I've got you now!"

"Yes, I suppose you have," sadly said the bunny. "But won't you please let me go?"

"No, I will not!" growled the Skuddemagoo. "I am going to bite some of your ears."

"Are you going to bite some of mine, too?" asked Woody, the groundhog, who was with him.

"Ho! Ho! I guess not," answered the Skuddemagoo. "Your ears are so small and down so far in your fur that it's hard to get at them to bite some. But Uncle Wiggly has such nice, long ears that it's a real pleasure to nip some off them."

"Oh, dear!" sighed the bunny. "If you don't want me, might as well run along to school, spoke Woody."

Uncle Wiggly didn't say anything, but he felt rather sorry that Woody was going to run and leave him to face the Skuddemagoo all alone.

"I wouldn't run away and leave Woody for the bunny to drop into. I suppose that is the way of the world."

The Skuddemagoo began to sharpen his teeth on his tongue as Woody skipped out of the woods and the bad chap was just sliding up to nip some of Uncle Wiggly's ears, when, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman seemed to sink down into a hole in the ground, and there he was out of sight.

"Why—why—where did he go?" asked the Skuddemagoo. "All I saw was a hole in the ground."

down there?" he called to Uncle Wiggly.

"Yes, he's here, and I'm here with him," answered Woody Chuck. "We fooled you all right, you bad Skuddemagoo. Did you think I'd run away and leave my Uncle Wiggly? I guess not! I slipped around behind him, dug a tunnel in the ground and made it come out right where Uncle Wiggly was sitting. Now you can't get him."

And the Skuddemagoo couldn't. Woody, brave groundhog that he was, had quickly burrowed under the ground and made a hole behind Uncle Wiggly, lined with soft leaves for the bunny to drop into. And when Mr. Longears fell into it he got away from the Skuddemagoo. Then Woody and the bunny hurried off, crawling out of the burrow a long way from where the Skuddemagoo was sitting. And thus everything came out all right. And if the back steps don't try to jump up to go to the movies when the wash lady is scrubbing them I'll tell you next of Uncle Wiggly and Waddy Chuck.

FRENCH HONOR RAPHAEL WEILL

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—To honor Raphael Weill, who yesterday celebrated the eighty-third anniversary of his birth, members of the French colony in San Francisco of which he is Jean, and friends of years' standing gathered at luncheon at the Poodle Dog, the old-time meeting place of this colony of connoisseurs, and later did him homage at his apartments at the St. Francis.

Weill, who is regarded as perhaps the most distinguished man of French extraction in San Francisco, is numbered with the early pioneer business men. In civic and philanthropic work he has taken a leading part. As founder of the White House his position in the commercial world is pre-eminent.

The "ougaru" of the commercial club were his hosts at luncheon, gathering in the famous old room on the second floor of the cafe where San Franciscans have been wont to congregate since the city's infancy. American and French flags draped the walls. Telegrams and letters of congratulation were read between the courses. Judge Harry A. Melvin, Julien Nelher, French consul-general, Charles Wheeler, E. H. Hamilton and Dr. E. R. Taylor were the principal speakers. Among those who gathered to do him honor were:

Judge W. W. Morrow, Fred W. Hall, John Landers, John McLernan, Hugh M. Burke, G. O. Davies, Chas. G. Vale, Dr. G. Wilson Shields, Fred S. Myrtle, Charles Foster, Harry Francis, J. E. Leitch, Charles Josslyn, Michael Weill, Louis Sloss. The Commercial Club will be the scene of a brilliant dinner which the French colony will sponsor tonight in compliment to the veteran. The occasion will commemorate not alone the birthday of Weill, but his promotion to the grade of officer in the Legion of Honor. Paul Verdier, president of the colony, will act as host.

Former Employee of

Tribune Found Dead

Charles Hebdler, aged 55, was found dead in the bathroom of his home at 1605 Nineteenth avenue, from heart trouble, by Police Corporal O'Reilly last night. Hebdler was for six years employed by The TRIBUNE in the circulation department and resigned six months ago. A neighbor last night noticed that Hebdler had not taken his canaries off the front porch as usual, and suspecting a tragedy, she telephoned the police. Corporal O'Reilly responded and found the body in the bathroom, fully clothed.

GARAGE AND AUTO LOST IN FLAMES

The garage and automobile of H. S. Newman at 5125 Shattuck avenue were destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning. A spark from Newman's cigarette, it is believed, dropped to a can of gasoline which stood in the garage, used for washing the machine. The gasoline supply tank of the automobile exploded. An alarm turned in brought engine companies 7, 8 and 19 which prevented the spread of the fire to other buildings. The loss is estimated at $2000. The garage belonged to Philip Gevertz of 5115 Shattuck avenue and was rented by Newman.

C. L. Walker, 659 Highland avenue, and W. H. Chickering Jr., 234 Mountain avenue, Piedmont, were painfully burned in putting out a small fire in Walker's room, when the two were working over Walker's automobile late last night. The Piedmont fire department responded to the call but the fire had been put out by the two men when the fire fighters arrived. The burns of Walker and Chickering were dressed by a local physician. The loss was nominal.

Youth Confesses to

Stealing of Autos

Under continued grilling by police inspectors, 16-year-old Walter Chandler, 44 Linda avenue, who has confessed to the theft of three automobiles during the past two months, is said to have broken down and confessed to the robbery of the candy and cigar stand operated in connection with the Key Route station in Piedmont. According to Police Inspectors G. D. Powers and W. H. Smith, Chandler said he had cycled the station on three occasions, taking merchandise on the first two times and the third time $25 from the till.

Wickersham Admits

Drawing Illegal Will

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—George W. Wickersham, former attorney-general of the United States, testifying under cross-examination at the contest over the will of Mrs. Rosa P. Spang, widow of a millionaire Pittsburgh steel manufacturer, under one clause of which he would have been one of the three beneficiaries, admitted that when he drew the instrument he knew some of its provisions were in conflict with the law of New York and Pennsylvania and that under certain circumstances one-third of the $2,000,000 fund intended for charity would have reverted to his personal estate.

Polished Enough To Fool Bankers, The Sheriff Says

JOSEPH STEVENS, nomad, held as short-change artist.

As High Financier Gypsy King Is Said to Be Diamond in Rough

MARTINEZ, Feb. 24.—Joseph Stevens is not a particularly sleek individual so far as appearances go. But, according to information given by the sheriff's office, he is sufficiently sleek to get away with sums that total a high figure from banks in many parts of the country.

Stevens, gypsy nomad, and his wife are in jail here. It is alleged that they have victimized banks from Connecticut to California by a short change method.

When it is alleged, Stevens tried his trick at the Bank of Concord and the First National Bank of Martinez, while his wife tried it at the Bank of Martinez Saturday. He met his Waterloo.

Initiating his methods elsewhere, Stevens is said to have gone into the First National Bank with three $300 bills and demanded change. When the change was given in smaller bills, it is said, he pushed the money back and demanded gold. When this was refused, it is further charged, he attempted to leave with his money in one hand and three $100 bills of the bank's money in the other. The police theory is that his game was deftly to extract some of the bank's money and make his getaway before it was noticed.

GIRLS' ACCOSTER SOUGHT BY POLICE

Police are searching this morning for a negro who accosted the small daughter of Mrs. C. Downs, 1322 Fifty-fifth avenue, last night while the child was going home with groceries from the neighborhood store. The man is believed by the police to be the same who late Sunday night entered the home of little Louise Quint, 2604 Fruitvale avenue, while the girl was left alone with her small brothers and sisters, and was put to flight by the plucky child.

The descriptions given by both children tally closely, and Chief of Police Lynch stated this morning that there is little doubt the same man is responsible for both episodes. He accosted the Downs child last night, and although the child screamed and ran in the direction of her home, the man quickened his pace and followed her. The child, frightened into hysterics, gained the safety of her yard and the man followed her to the gate.

Mrs. Downs immediately telephoned to the police and a squad of men was dispatched to the scene, but they could not find the man.

Otto Lorin Fritsch

Dead at Honolulu

News of the sudden death of Otto Lorin Fritsch, well known in local athletic circles in Honolulu, where he has been in charge of the athletic work of the Honolulu high schools, was received today in a cablegram from the islands of Hawaii to Miss Renee Cavall of New York, an accomplished musician. The young bride was introduced locally when she visited with the Emil Fritsches two months ago before leaving for the islands. Otto Fritsch had been in Honolulu in the work in which he was engaged at the time of his death, for more than a year.

Single Taxers Hope

To Run Gen. Gorgas

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 24.—Single tax clubs throughout the country propose this year to form a new national party, according to James A. Robinson of Philadelphia, national organizer. The tax on land values only will be the platform frame work. Our candidate for President has not been selected, but General William Gorgas, the man who cleaned up the Panama Canal Zone, is a member of the party and we have reasons to believe he would run," Robinson said.

UNNECESSARY COSTS.

Beside the urgency of revising the present schedule of federal taxes in order to eliminate its inconsistencies and injustices, the subject of an article in these columns of yesterday's TRIBUNE, it is the plain obligation of the government to eliminate some of the expenditures which it is now making and which it proposes to make. There are many cases of reckless waste and extravagance which might easily be corrected. Take the government's working force as an example. Prior to the war there were about 500,000 civil service employees in the several executive departments of the government. During the war the number was raised to slightly above one million. Now about $50,000 are retained in the government's service. In other words there are 350,000 civil service employees which could easily be dispensed with. In view of the ruthless manner in which the administration, under the ugly example of the President, has violated the civil service rules, it is no violence to truth to refer to these supernumeraries as for the most part political retainers. A government honestly devoted to economy and efficiency would speedily do away with them.

This matter was called to the attention of Congress the other day by resolutions adopted by the New York Chamber of Commerce. The same resolutions also dealt upon the fact that the Surgeon-General of the army is asking for an appropriation of $85,000,000 for the construction of hospitals in the United States, notwithstanding that the government recently sold the model hospital of the country for disabled army men, which cost $3,000,000 to build, for $100,000. Such acts flagrantly violate every rule of economy.

At present an agitation has been started against the sale of thirty former German passenger and freight ships seized during the war, for approximately $30,000,000. Although designed to promote a personage, Congress has taken the agitation seriously and placed itself in an attitude of opposition to the proposed sale. Yet the engineers and architects of the federal shipping board state that the remodeling of the German ships, necessary to adapt them to American operation, would cost the government $75,000,000. This item added to what might be obtained for them before making repairs would raise the net cost to $105,000,000 or $3,500,000 per ship. The shipping board can build more serviceable ships for less than $3,500,000.

It would be the more economical procedure by a large margin to sell the former German ships or let them be taken in hand by the government for repairs. If the Congress will reject the more expensive way of remodeling public service and eliminate the costly surplus of government employees it will be able to greatly reduce the national debt.

At the same time it will not be called upon to practice parsimony with reference to necessary additions to the naval establishment and the reorganization of the army. It will be able to assist in public education for better citizenship, promote national highway building and do many other needed things.

HAWAII WANTS STATEHOOD.

Governor Charles McNulty has come to this country and is to be a delegate to the Hawaiian Islands. This long journey, for a man who has been going on the island for the last two years, seems a waste of time and money. Several reasons are given for the long journey. The first is that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States. The second is that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States. The third is that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States.

Viewed in the light of the fact that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States, it is not surprising that the Hawaiian people are so anxious to see a definite action taken by the United States government. The Hawaiian people are so anxious to see a definite action taken by the United States government that they are willing to pay the expense of the journey. The Hawaiian people are so anxious to see a definite action taken by the United States government that they are willing to pay the expense of the journey.

has been substantially changed since the American flag was raised over the land. The native Hawaiian element has been relegated to a subordinate place. Japanese have invaded the islands to such an extent that at the present rate of accretion the Japanese will control Hawaiian affairs in a few more years. Chinese are the second strongest race in Hawaii. Many thousands of both the Japanese and Chinese have qualified for citizenship in the territory. When the younger generation of these two races obtain voting age they will be able, if they combine their strength, to place the political affairs of Hawaii under the control of Oriental racial, moral and intellectual stock.

The prospect is not pleasant. Were the Hawaiians alone concerned, or only they and other peoples entitled to full citizenship rights under the laws of the United States, no valid objection would be raised against a census and a vote of affirmative answer to Hawaii's plea. But that this is not the case Hawaii is painfully aware. There will be inevitable strong objections to granting statehood to the islands, objections that will be couched unpleasantly in race prejudice and economic and political distrust.

The burden of answering these objections will rest upon those Americans in Hawaii who have imported Oriental labor and upon the territorial government which has permitted the entry of persons objectionable to the citizenship laws of the United States.

AN END TO OBSTRUCTION.

"It would appear to an outsider that both sides were in agreement on all the great major ideas of the League and the major ideas of reservations but that they are in disagreement over secondary questions in the reservations."

This observation by Mr. Herbert Hoover briefly and concisely describes the deadlock in the Senate on the peace treaty. It is differences of opinion over secondary and in the main unimportant matters that has defeated ratification. And unfortunately the motives for magnifying and giving destructive effectiveness to these differences are the self-seeking of politicians and the desire to maintain personal prestige. Both sides of the controversy are about equally responsible and culpable.

While the unhappy conflict has been carried on America has lost immeasurably in moral prestige and, what is of more direct and immediate importance, in material advantages. A few short months ago America was the greatest moral force in the world—the moral and political leader of all nations, with unlimited opportunity to benefit herself and all the peoples of the earth. The position was won for her by her soldiers on the battlefield of France. Senate politicians and an obstinate President abandoned the position, deserted it.

America is no longer a leader which all the peoples of Europe were willing to follow and all governments of Europe compelled to follow. She is a disappointment, the field of abandoned hopes, again unable to take much more than a talking part in world leadership.

Germany took as her evil watchword, "Deutschland über Alles." The German empire is no more. All that remains is a community of distraught, despairing people and distracted, desperate politicians, which for two generations will be under heavy fire to infamies of a government that followed the idea of "Germany over all."

Those who have blocked ratification of the peace treaty, with rational and consistent reservations, are crying "America over all." America isolated, selfish, unmindful of opportunity. They think as the Germans of the old regime. They see destruction and collapse everywhere around them but are stubbornly blind to the danger that America may also be engulfed.

These short-sighted men in official position and those shortsighted politicians seeking to make the peace treaty an issue in the presidential campaign are harming America. If they are irreconcilable they should be controlled or abandoned. They should not be permitted to control the nation of clear thinking men. The destinies of the country are unsafe in their hands.

President Wilson has caused it to be announced officially that the notes exchanged between him and the Allied powers will be given to the public within the next few days. Of course, they will be interesting to those who like to read diplomatic exchanges and to those who would compare the dealings with actualities. But the complete and insignificant small proportion of the world population who are anxious to see a definite action taken by the United States government is the only group who are interested in the Hawaiian Islands. This long journey, for a man who has been going on the island for the last two years, seems a waste of time and money. Several reasons are given for the long journey. The first is that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States. The second is that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States. The third is that the Hawaiian Islands are a part of the United States and the Hawaiian people are citizens of the United States.

Representative Eads says the purpose of the taxpayers of government control of the national debt is to show the world, while the Senate is in session, that the expense of the experiment in Hawaii is not $100,000,000 as the Hawaiian people are so anxious to see a definite action taken by the United States government that they are willing to pay the expense of the journey.

Rumors to the effect that the Democratic party is dead may be due to the fact that out of its leaders are "going West."

NOTES and COMMENT

A message was wired home by Representative Randall of the Los Angeles district, to the effect that "an irreconcilable tide is pressing Hoover toward the White House," and that the party managers who are accustomed to steering steamrollers before the juggernaut of the people, which jumbles metaphors, smiles and things in such a way to bewilder.

The Kaiser's brother has expressed himself in behalf of the Kaiser to the effect that the American people are beginning to see how cleverly they were led into the war by reckless foreign propaganda. It is a guess, he is entitled to another. The American people may not be getting out of the war as gracefully as they would wish, but they know what they were about in getting into it.

A despatch says the Germans are making preparations to try those accused of war crimes—English, French and Belgian witnesses are being summoned. It can be imagined how pleasant it will be for witnesses from any of these countries to go to Germany for the purpose of testifying against Germans. Probably many times summoned will not go, to the advantage of the accused.

They are not politically complained in Georgia. The name of Hoover cannot be on the Democratic primary ballot unless he avows himself a Democrat. Politicians in his behalf have been received, but they are held in abeyance. They do not take any chances as to the party predilections of candidates in Georgia.

What purports to be a despatch from London is to the effect that further progress toward the discovery of the killer of youth has been announced by two scientists. Miss Frances de Leon stuff, and there is some appearance that it goes almost as well as it did four hundred years ago.

Health officers are imparting the not unwelcome information that the flu crisis is over. Which doesn't warrant us in taking any chances that can be avoided with reasonable precaution. Vagrant germs may still lurk, seeking whom they may devour.

Congress has been in session since May 16, 1919, and those who think it hasn't achieved importantly should know that 12,644 bills have been introduced and it has prevented all but 245 of them becoming laws.

This sounds as though it emanated from one of those anti-medical associations: "The flu is not without its good points. One of our leading hospitals has announced that during the epidemic no unnecessary operations will be permitted." But it is an extract from the Chicago Tribune.

A despatch tells about Berlin garbage men becoming plutocrats. That is not the way it is here—yet. But conditions have moved along in that direction, and are still moving.

Those who go to Cuba to get a drink now pay $10 for a pass. But at that there are nearly a thousand a day who qualify. The result that accommodates such crowds might be called "Cocktail Specials."

SPRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Many a community is kept from enjoying the full fruits of its prosperity because a portion of its citizenry subsists on wrangling for discussion. Instead of meeting civic problems in a spirit of conciliation and compromise, an antagonistic and sectional spirit is manifested, with the result that the essentials of community progress are missing. An agreement of some kind is necessary in order to progress toward a worthy goal. And when an agreement is reached it is just as essential to push forward and carry it out.—San Pedro Harbor Buoys.

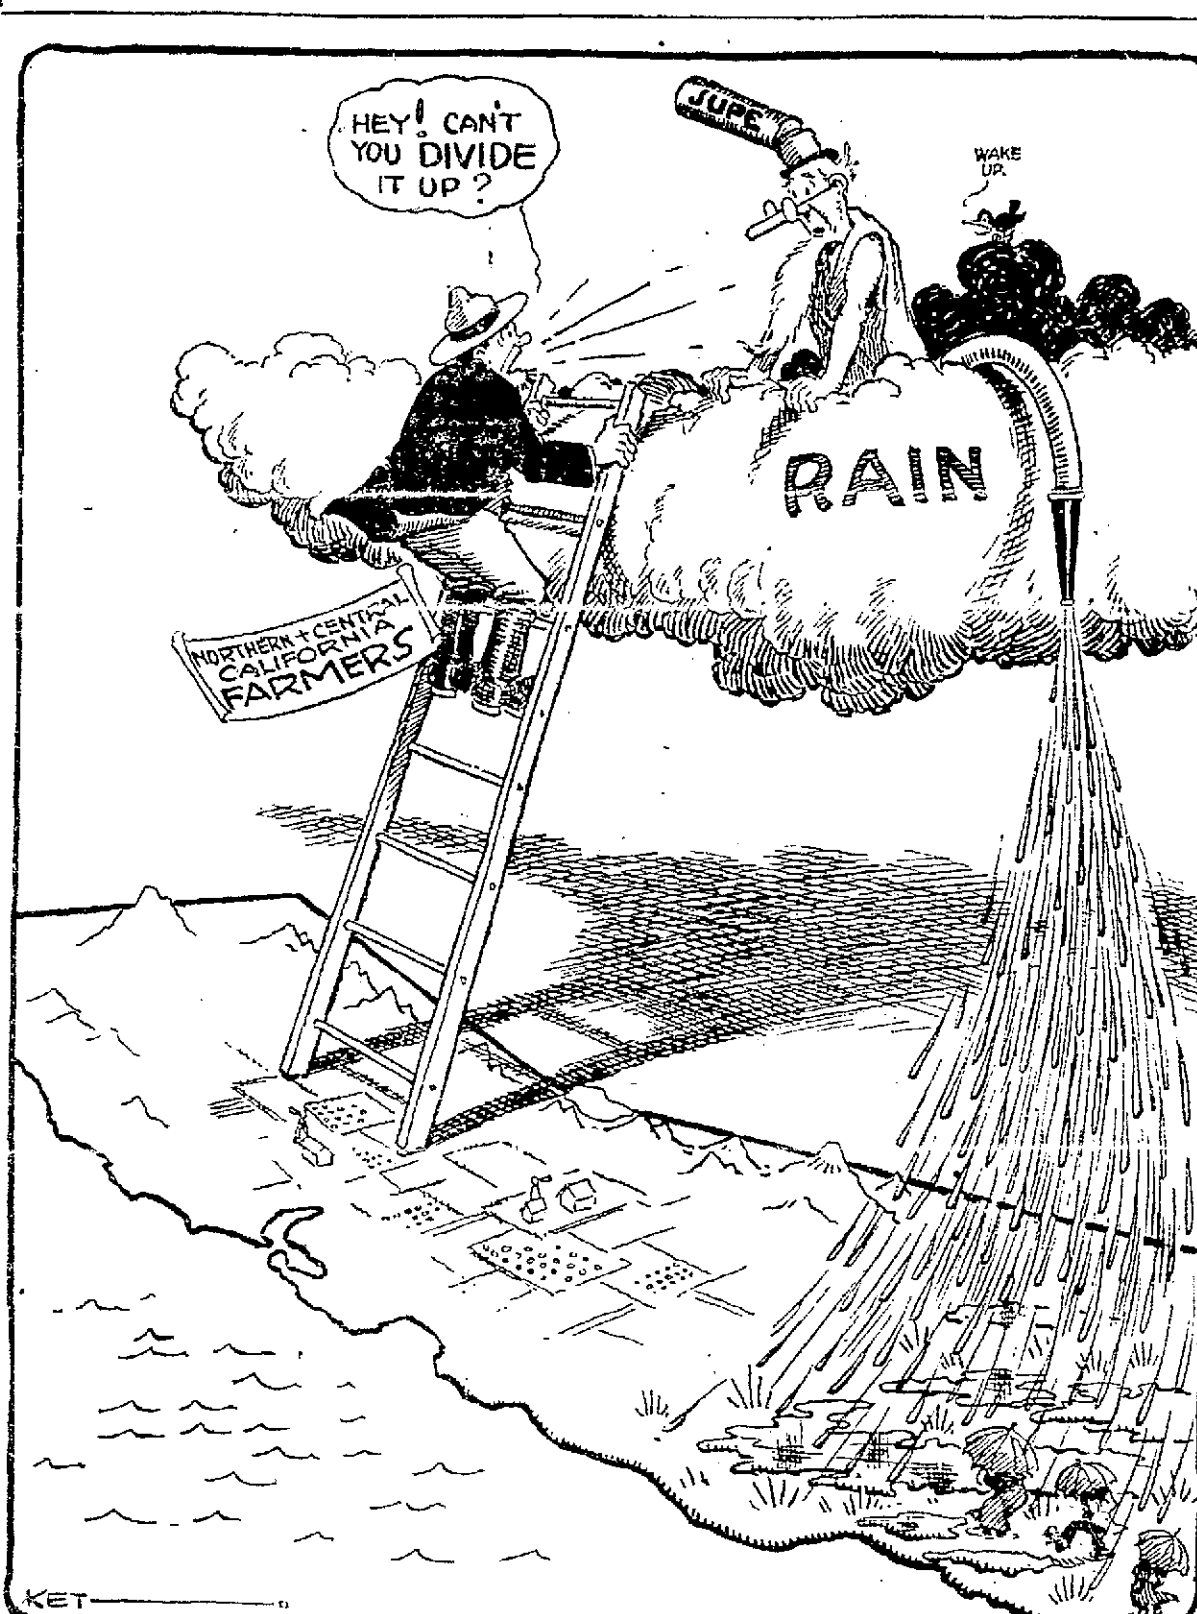

The relatively low rainfall of the recent season in California should do much to promote irrigation. Returns on rainfall alone, even where it is sufficiently sufficient for ordinary crops, frequently fails to obtain the best possible results from the soil. In this great valley many of the farmers and fruit growers are turning to irrigation as a source of profit and as a means of conserving water. As a result of some of the experience and observation of the farmers, the following are suggested as points to be considered in the planning of an irrigation system.

When the study of the effects of irrigation is made, it is found that the most profitable results are obtained when the water is applied in a regular and systematic manner. The water should be applied in a regular and systematic manner, and the amount of water should be determined by the needs of the crops. TWO-CENT AND THREE-CENT COINS NEEDED

Circumstances arising out of the war have caused a movement to revive the coinage of two-cent and three-cent pieces in the United States. Never before has there been such a need of odd sized coins. The mint has been turning out pennies by the millions and still the supply in many cities is unequal to the demand. As a result of these conditions, legislation is possible at the present session of Congress to legalize the coinage of two-cent and three-cent pieces.

The cost of living is largely responsible. In scores of cities it costs 7 cents or 8 cents to ride on a street car, where formerly it cost but 5 cents. The invention of street cars could have the privilege of being on a strap during the rush hour for a nickel. Luxury taxes imposed as the last session of Congress are also largely responsible. Soft drinks, including war tax, now practically always come in odd amounts. Ordinarily sodas and phosphates which before the war cost a nickel, now are 10 cents, with a 1-cent war tax. The most American drink of ice cream soda usually costs 15 cents, to which is added the 1-cent war tax, and in many places the price is 20 cents, plus a tax. The chocolate bar, which formerly sold for a nickel, now is usually sold at 7 cents. An average of the above costs an odd amount in pennies, 11 cents or 17 cents, or some other uneven figure. Two-cent and three-cent pieces are needed now in the United States. A three-cent piece was authorized by Congress March 3, 1911, and more than 12,000,000 of these useful coins were put into circulation before the war. The government in the 25 years from 1865 to 1911, incidentally, might be reminded in passing that the "nickel" 2-cent piece, commonly very little nickel, only 25 percent of nickel and 75 percent copper. A two-cent piece of bronze was coined for nine years beginning in 1841.

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

Coroner H. E. Mehrmann loses in test case to determine whether he can collect a $2 fee for internments. Citizens of Pleasant Valley district in Piedmont form vigilance committee to patrol streets and try to capture firebug who has set fire to four homes in the past week. Gang of rioters on Berkeley local train attack C. A. Miller, Berkeley watchmaker, who beats them off with a cane. C. P. Jones, well-known horse racer, comes to his aid and a free-for-all fight ensues on the train.

WHERE TROUBLE LIES

The advance in the price of mattresses may cause more unrest in this country.—Arkansas Gazette.

They used to be fairly common as late as the start of the 19th Century, but it is doubtful if any of the 45,000,000 coined are in circulation at the present time. They were large, heavy coins about the size of a quarter and extremely awkward to handle.

Our familiar copper cent has been in use only since 1861. The first cent, coined in 1792, weighed 264 grains, considerably more than a silver half dollar. It was reduced several times to 72 grains in 1837, and finally to 48 grains, its present weight, in 1864. Another curiosity of coinage was the nickel cent. Approximately 200,000,000 of these were coined between 1857 and the end of the Civil War. A half cent was in use from 1792 to 1857. These coins were heavier than a silver quarter. Two other curious coins were the 600 3/4 gold pieces, each as large as a gold medal, struck off in 1815 for the Panama Pacific Exposition, and the silver half dime which was coined from 1792 to 1873 to the number of nearly 100,000,000.—Thrill Magazine.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

How to Make Your Bath a Varied Cleansing Delight.

By DR. LEONARD K. HENNING
 (Johns Hopkins University)

Baths should not only be thought necessary to cleanse the skin, but they should, besides this, be at all times considered as a pleasant part of the toilet. They may be rendered thus, indeed, by adding to water and soap a few drops of a lotion or a specially prepared skin tonic.

Bran and oatmeal have other purposes in life than those of ordinary grains have. They may be used as agents to cleanse the skin and to add to the pleasure of your bath.

To use these grains for purposes of the bath, fashion cheese cloth into bags. Use very small stitches for these bags and leave only a small space to put in the grain.

Before you put the bran into the sack mix it thoroughly with three ounces of powdered orris root to six pounds of bran. Have the mixture very thorough. If you wish, you may add three ounces of castle soap crushed into a fine powder. The bag must be large enough to contain this mixture in half of it. When you have placed the preparation in the container, sew it up tightly.

Throw the bag into the water after it has been drawn into the tub and allow it to remain for five minutes. The water is thereby softened. Because you allow the water to stand for some time before you actually get into the tub, draw it hotter than ordinarily, to have it just the right temperature when you are ready for it. Let the bag over the bath, but the bag on a nail and let it hang in order to drip out all its moisture. Do not squeeze it, however, for thus you allow its cleansing properties to be wasted.

Use the old-fashioned variety of oatmeal for these bags. Boil the grain for fifteen or twenty minutes to expand it and to allow the starch easily to be extracted when thrown into the tub. Mix the oatmeal in the proportion of five pounds to one with powdered orris root and a pound of almond meal. If you wish, you may easily substitute three ounces of powdered castle soap instead. The orris is not absolutely essential, but it is very desirable for its pleasing scent.

A good tonic mixture that is not expensive and particularly good for persons whose complexions are florid is found in the following:

Bromide of potassium—1 gram.
 Carbonate of lime—1 gram.
 Carbonate of soda—300 grains.
 Phosphate of soda—8 grams.
 Sulphate of soda—5 grams.
 Sulphate of alumina—1 gram.
 Sulphate of iron—3 grams.
 Oil of lavender—1 gram.
 Oil of thyme—1 gram.
 Oil of rosemary—1 gram.

The amount of this mixture is sufficient for one good bath. If you increase the ingredients in proportion you may make enough for several baths.

Put these ingredients, like the others, into a bag fashioned for the purpose. After the bath, hang the bag on a hook to drain out the moisture.

You may also make your baths pleasant if you add merely a few drops of oil of lavender to the tub of warm water. This gives a fragrant odor to the skin. You may also mix, if you like, equal parts of lavender, thyme and rosemary. This mixture, when used in a bath, assures a good combination and produces pleasing fragrance. Too much, however, would make the odor so strong as to be decidedly objectionable.

POLICE STOP GUM GAME OF STUDENTS

Investigation by Lieutenant of Police William E. Woods, also started, of alleged petty gambling in two Oakland schools led to the taking of a large number of youths where they were reprimanded and released. The police say they will continue their investigations.

Last week the elusive Lady of Luck, who has been the cause of Oakland in a strange and unaccustomed guise—namely, gum roulette. And so fascinating did this game become that a large number of the youths who were expelled from the school were lured into betting their money on the color of the little ball of gum that would emerge from the slot of the gum machine upon the turn of the wheel.

Today the irrepressible lady appeared in a more plebeian garb among the students of the Washington school, but when Corporal John J. Brown suddenly appeared in the midst of a crowd of youths who were playing with the gallinging machine, the lady Luck was once more put to rest.

ENEMY TRADING DEFENSE SET UP

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—Alleged attempts by Henry W. Westphal, C. O. Swanberg and Robert R. Russ of San Francisco to forward dividends of the Russ Estate Company to heirs of the estate in Germany through Sweden and Switzerland during the war were testified to in the United States District Court yesterday at the opening session of the trial of the three on indictments charging them with violation of the "trading with the enemy" act.

Two of the heirs were San Francisco girls who had gone to Berlin to complete their musical education, according to the testimony, and after being cut off from direct communication had indirectly begged for aid. Others were stated to be residents of Dresden.

Attorneys for the defense said they would prove that the defendants had been informed the San Francisco girls had gotten out of Germany to Sweden.

Burglar Frightened By Woman's Screams

Screams of Mrs. A. L. Ely, 731 East Fourteenth street, frightened a burglar who had entered her room early this morning so that he ran away without taking anything from the Ely home.

According to Mrs. Ely's statement to Inspectors Gannawand Tracy, who visited her home shortly after her report of the attempted burglary, she awoke to see the man cutting a pane from the window of her room. She was too frightened to do anything at the time, she said, but when the man entered the room she screamed. When she screamed the man disappeared the same way he entered.
